LEGAL BALLOTS.

The time has arrived when all political parties and all "interested" parties will want election tickets printed, and all such should know what constitutes a legal ballot. The statute does not prescribe a legal ballot further than that it shall "in size, color, form and texture conform to the requirements set forth in the proclamation of the County Commissioners of each county; and further, that said ballot or ticket shall be free from marks, characters or device or thing that would enable any person to distinguish by the back, or when folded, from any other ticket or ballot." It will be seen by this that the size, quality of paper, etc., upon which tickets are to be printed is to be designated by the Commissioners. In this county the proclamation is that the tickets shall be printed, or written, upon a good quality of white paper, 14-pound flat cap; in form and size to be of the length of twelve inches, and of the width of four inches, or within one-eighth of an inch of such size, and if printed, the names of the persons voted for and the office designated shall be printed in black ink, the name of the office in lower-case long primer type and the name of the person voted for in long primer capitals. Printers will of course readily understand this, but the question which seems to puzzle the minds of some is whether printing the name "Democratic ticket" or "Republican ticket" on the face of the ballot would make the ticket an illegal one. For fear it might be construed as a technical violation of law, most, if not all, the ballots voted in this county last year were printed without any such distinguishing marks; but we think all fears upon that score are unfounded. Our law on the subject was copied almost verbatim from the Indiana code, and in that State the question has been litigated and it was decided by the Supreme Court that the words "Republican ticket" or "Democratic ticket," or the like, on the inside of the ballot does not authorize its rejection; that such marks are not "distinguishing." (Duchner vs. State 29 Ind., 308; Stanley vs. Manley, 35 Ind., 275; Millholland vs. Bryant, 39 Ind., 335.) So long as there be no distinguishing marks on the back of the ticket it is a legal ballot under the law in this State.

THE STAR ROUTE JURY BRIBES

Colonel R. C. Ingersoll has made a public statement, embodying a number of affidavits, in which he shows that several of the jurymen in the star route cases were corruptly approached by employees of the Department of Justice. One of these jurymen, Wm. K. Brown, swears that one Arthur Dayne came to him with a written agreement with T. H. Fall, to be signed by affidavit, in which it was agreed that if the witness and one Thomas Martin would vote to convict the defendants in the star route cases, he would receive the sum of $2,500. An affidavit from Thomas R. Foote corroborates this story. James A. Nelson asserts that he was employed by Fall to see jurors Brown and Martin, both colored, and to tell them that if they voted for the conviction of Dorsey and Brady they would be well paid for it. Wm. R. Laws swears that Fall wanted him to see if he could break the jury. Colonel Ingersoll says that he thinks these affidavits establish the fact that agents and employees of the Department of Justice were for months engaged in an effort to corrupt with money and the promise of official position the jury upon whose verdict depended the reputation and liberty of the defendants. These are indeed serious charges to be made against the Attorney-General of the United States. If Brewster is guilty of this he ought to be broken up as an attorney, driven out of decent society, and held up to the scorn of mankind. A public prosecutor should not be a persecutor. It is his duty to see, so far as he can, that the law is enforced against guilty parties, but he himself is the criminal when he attempts by false testimony or by bribing the jury to convict, regardless of the evidence. His duty is to see justice done, to acquit the innocent as well as punish the guilty, and when he does not do this he is a bad man, unfit for his position, a disgrace to the office, and should himself be in the penitentiary.

A WORD FOR STROTHER.

CARSON, October 10, 1892.
EDITOR EUREKA LEADER: Having read "Working Woman's" letter to your paper it reminded me that mother should also take an interest in the coming contest for Governor. We, who realize what the example of our leading men are upon the rising generation, should see to it that only men of thoroughly good example in every respect should occupy so exalted a position as Governor of a State. When we take our sons to visit the Capital during the session of the Legislature, or at other times, we ought to be certain that the sight of cards, or the clink of coin from the Governor's office shall not astonish the gaze or offend the young ears, as has been the case in the Lieutenant-

Governor's office during the last two terms. If those living in the Eastern portion of the State knew the two candidates as thoroughly as we of Carson and Virginia, they would not hesitate one moment as to their choice of men for their Governor. Of Mr. Strother, who has lived in the State twenty years not one thing detrimental to his character can be said. His life needs no defender. As an example to the young his past life will be invaluable, teaching them true dignity, thorough honesty and uprightness in business, sobriety and retiring modesty. And only by the past can we judge of the future, therefore, let one who knows both candidates well admonish those who have the care of the young at heart to vote for Mr. Strother, for we can depend that he will never by his conduct, cause a blush of shame to rise to our cheeks for the example set the youth of our State, or for the honor of our State's Chief Executive.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The stampede among the lawless Indians in Arizona shows that General Crook is among them. He has commanded the Indians to remain on their reservations under penalty of death, and soldiers, agents and civilians are notified that they will be held strictly accountable and severely and summarily punished for any unjust treatment of the Indians. Indians, agents, soldiers and civilians know too well that Crook says what he means and means what he says, and that all must obey or suffer. We will not be likely to hear of any more Indian troubles in Arizona while Crook remains in that country.

Some meddlesome wisecracker has informed the Carson Index that great consternation and wrangling exists among the Republicans in Washoe county. We desire to inform our neighbor at the Hub that there is nothing in the story. The Central Committee have not, nor have they ever dreamt of doing that which your informant states they did do, nor is Reno "wild with excitement and the air full of cursings." The party in this county was never more harmonious than at the present time, nor the prospect of a glorious Republican victory more certain.

A prominent Storey county Democrat informs us that his party in that county are so woefully disgusted at the shamefully corrupt manner in which public affairs have been run in that county for the past two years by Democratic officials that nine-tenths of the voters of that party have resolved to place the seal of condemnation upon the whole business in November by voting the Republican ticket straight, from Governor to Constable.

Dr. C. C. O'Donnell, a professional San Francisco Crank, who for years has been a standing candidate for Governor was arrested, as a nuisance by officer Stevenson yesterday, while haranguing a crowd from his buggy at the corner of Pine and Montgomery streets. The mob was so great as to prevent travel, and the oratory was accordingly booked for obstructing the street.

Claims to the amount of $76,900 have been filed with the Board appointed to audit bills arising from the illness and death of President Garfield. They include the bill of Dr. Bliss for $25,000; Dr. Agnew, $14,700; Dr. Royburn, $10,800, and Dr. Susan Edson, $10,000.

Powning, Bishop and Leonard spoke in Eureka Monday night to the largest and most enthusiastic political meeting ever assembled in that city. Our speakers are doing good work on the stump and the enthusiastic reception given them everywhere shows that success of the entire Republican ticket is a foregone conclusion.

The Carson Index says that the people of Ormsby who intend to vote against Mr. Powning upon the ground that he worked against the interests of Ormsby county at the last Legislative session do themselves and Mr. Powning a serious injustice.

The San Francisco Post states that General McDowell has secured a proprietary interest in the Alta California newspaper, and that upon his retiring from the army he will give attention to the publication of the paper named.

The editor of the White Pine News, a Democrat, says: "As we never go back on the craft, unless for valid reasons, Mr. Dormer stands a good show of getting one Democratic vote in Cherry Creek."

Utah Politics.

The Liberal campaign opened in Ogden Monday night with a large and enthusiastic assemblage. There was a torch-light procession, anvil firing and music before the meeting commenced, which, on account of the inclemency of the weather, had to be held indoors. Union Hall, the largest in the city, was densely packed with people, among whom were more Mormons than Americans, and the utmost interest was manifested by the people present. No such large and enthusiastic political meeting was ever before held in Utah, and it presages the dawn of a brighter day in the priest-ridden Territory.

A Monument for Jefferson.

W. W. Corcoran, Chief Justice Carter of the District Supreme Court; A. R. Spofford, Librarian of Congress, Dr. Joseph M. Toner, Jeremiah Black and others, have taken out articles of incorporation, under the title of the Jefferson Monument Association, for the purpose of erecting a monument in Washington to the memory of Thos. Jefferson. The capital of the association is placed at $100,000, with power to increase to $1,000,000.

Pulpit Politics.

In New York and Brooklyn last Sunday several preachers touched on politics. Beecher denied that he was a prohibitionist, but Talmage gloried in the fact that he is one. He said "for 1884 I nominate for President and Vice President (and I don't care who heads the ticket) Governor St. John of Kansas, and Governor Colquitt, of Georgia. Let us prove that the war is indeed over by nominating to the highest office the illustrious Georgian."

A Big Strike in Nye County!

The Nevada Mining Company, Manuel San Pedro, Superintendent, has made a big strike. The ore now being taken from their mine in Gold Park, Nye county, assays as high as $11,000. The baiton from a half ounce of rock is the largest ever made from the same amount here. The gold goes $5,000, and the balance is in silver.

In the United States District Court in Philadelphia, Tuesday, Judge McMenon denied a new trial to Joseph R. Black, Thos. F. McDewitt and Christian Price, convicted of star route conspiracy, and sentenced McDewitt to pay $5,000 and imprisonment for a year. Price to pay a fine of $400. The sentence of Black was deferred a few days in consequence of his counsel's serious illness.

When the Boston & Albany Railroad was constructed, the State of Massachusetts was induced to aid the enterprise by subscribing for 24,115 shares of stock, which after drawing 8 per cent. dividends for the past twenty-five years the State has just sold out to the company at 56 per cent. premium.

The meeting at the Theater last evening, under the auspices of the Young Men's Republican Club, was well attended, every available seat in the large hall being filled. The meeting was addressed by Hon. C. S. Varian, R. L. Fulton, Judge Boardman and John P. Alexander.

Why the Gun Did Not Thunder.
Last week, when Cassidy, Adams and other Democratic stump-speakers visited Candelaria, it was arranged to greet their arrival with the thunder of cannon. A member of the party had taken upon himself all the arrangements for firing the salute. He had bought the powder, and had all in readiness a day or two before. When the magistrates arrived, however, this man was not visible, nor was there any sign that he was getting ready his gun. Search was made for him, and he was at last found fast asleep. He was ruthlessly aroused, but for the life of him could not remember what he had done with the powder that was to be used in firing the salute. No prompting sufficed to cause him to remember where he had stowed away the powder, and so the gun did not thunder. The mishap seemed ominous, and the Republicans laughed in their sleeves. To add to the discomfiture of the Democracy, when they ran up their stars and stripes their liberty pole gave way—broke square off at the base.

Severely Injured.
A brakeman named McHenry was severely injured at what is called the "Goose Neck," near Wadsworth, Tuesday morning. The train was going east at a lively rate on a curve. McHenry got on a lumber car, and losing his balance, had to jump or fall off the car. He jumped, and when found was twenty feet from where he struck the ground. Both legs were broken at the ankles and his shoulder badly crushed. He is said to be a native of Sweden, 24 or 25 years of age. He was taken to the hospital at Sacramento.

Peace to their Ashes.
Two of the festive youths who graced the town with their presence some days ago and contributed to the education of storekeepers by teaching them how to change twenty dollar pieces at a loss of fifty per cent. have skipped the town and gone to grace other festive scenes. They paid their fines of a hundred dollars each with a wry face, concluding that it was better to face the inevitable and start out for pastures new, where in a couple of days they could change enough twenties to reimburse their Reno fines and also release their suffering partner left behind—from limbo. It is stated on good authority that the trio raked in over $1,500 in Salt Lake and $1,000 in Ogden together with proportional sums from every town on their road to Reno. With them however the proverbial saying "easy come, easy goes" proved to be strictly true and what they made by swindling, they lost in gambling. They are also expert banko steers and strap game players, and manage to live by their wits in the most artistic style. It is said by parties familiar with them that one of the trio had over six hundred dollars sewed up in the cuff of his overcoat. At any rate, as they have skipped the town with hasty steps, peace to their shadows. They took away from tradespeople about $120 and left behind $200 to the county, with another $100 peeping up its head in the dim future. Such book-keeping, though tough on individuals, will pay in the long run to the general community.

It Settled Him.
The other night Mr. Gulldowner returned at a late hour from the lodge and was busily engaged in trying to pick the front door lock of his residence with a tooth-pick, when the door suddenly flew open and there was his wife standing in awful majesty, with a lamp held high in air, contemplating him with a withering look of scorn as he braced himself against the door jamb for support, meanwhile endeavoring to sipper a sweet smile at the old woman. "Where have you been, George Augustus Oscar Wilde Gulldowner," she calmly inquired while a hissing look of wildfire leaped from her eyes. "B'n ter lodge, love—B'n ter lodge," he hiccuped forth. "Well, how is it that you return to the bosom of your family in such a condition? Do they inculcate such ideas and practices in those horrid secret lodges?" "No m' dear, no m' dear, but on way home (hic) a friend and b'rther got me to step into some queer side place and blow off the top of his glass o' beer so as to settle it." "Well George Oscar, I'll settle you in the same manner," and she led him by the ear to the domestic chamber, cutting his head at every blow. "I'll settle you! I'll settle you! even if I have to blow your head off, too." A few lusty yells were heard by the neighbors and then all was silent, though it was suspected that an animated certain lecture was going on.

A Close Call.
Yesterday afternoon Mrs. C. F. Moeller, wife of the proprietor of Steamboat Springs, with her son, 16 or 17 years of age, was returning home from Virginia City, while descending the Geiger grade the horse shied, throwing the buggy against the bank. This frightened the horse and he started to kicking and bucking at a furious rate. The buggy was upset and the occupants thrown over the bank. The horse then kicked himself loose from the vehicle, smashing it to smithereens, and ran home. In the fall Mrs. Moeller had two of her front teeth knocked out and her lips pretty severely bruised, but otherwise was unhurt. The boy escaped unhurt. Mrs. M. came to Reno last evening to consult a physician and was delighted to learn that she was worse scared than hurt.

A Card From the Central Committee.
Referring to the differences heretofore existing between certain members of this committee, the several candidates on the Republican ticket, and the press, noticed in an unwarranted manner by the Index and Chronicle of Tuesday, it is deemed proper to say that the annoyance was but temporary, and that the utmost harmony and good will prevails. The Republican party of this county is eminently qualified to arrange its differences—if any exist—and to manage its affairs without the assistance of the outside press, in whatever spirit it may be offered.
By order of Committee.
F. R. WAGGONER, Chairman.
J. G. LAW, Secretary.

Postmaster Jamison Puzzled.
The other evening Postmaster Jamison tripped up on a letter which completely took his official breath away, addressed in the following style: "To Michael Gilhooly, known sometimes as Red-mouthed Mike alias Big-toed Jim—care of Patrick McInnery or his sister Bridget, or her cousin Ana; maybe his third cousin Tim might know where he is. Corner of some street in Washoe, Reno County, California, Nevada. He's an arkieek and carries a kod for a profession."

Wonderful Cave in Sierra Valley.
The following account is from the Sierra Valley Leader relative to the finding of a wonderful cave in the valley. Parties in from there hint at wonderful discoveries of almost fabulous amounts of gold and silver ores. The account reads for itself: "Last week Quinn Fletcher and Phil Peyran started out on an exploring expedition. For some time Mr. Fletcher has known of the existence of a large cave in the mountains near the valley, but had never closely examined it or ascertained its dimensions, and Mr. Peyran's curiosity being excited, the two started out to see more about this hole in the ground. No little difficulty was experienced in finding the spot, the hole being small and amid a tangled growth of underbrush on a steep hillside about two miles from the site of Mr. Fletcher's old mill. They had provided themselves with lights and compass, and upon reaching the opening at once proceeded to investigate. The mouth of the cave was large enough to admit three men abreast, but in about a hundred feet or more it narrowed until it was thought that the end had been reached. Upon close examination, however, a small aperture was discovered just large enough for a man to crawl through with difficulty. After this came a number of large apartments connected by long corridors. At last in their wanderings they came to a chasm extending from side to side which prevented further progress. It is estimated that fully 500 feet were traversed before their passage was stopped. They describe the cave as being one of exceeding grandeur. From the roof stalactites hang pendent which glistened in the candle light, and stalagmites were grouped in strange, grotesque positions upon the floor. Before reaching the opening their candles gave out, and it was with considerable difficulty that the open air was finally gained. The gentlemen are somewhat reticent about their find, and the impression prevails that some more valuable discoveries were made."

The Oscar Wilde Beverage.
One of our most esteemed county officials has invented a new harmless, Summer drink, which he has dubbed by the esthetic name of "Oscar Wilde." Whenever he ambles into a place of vertical liquid refreshment, he invariably calls for an "Oscar Wilde." The other evening, a lady well acquainted with this esthetic peculiarity overheard him call for a glass of his favorite, as she was going to the dining room. He met her half a second afterward when she beckoned him aside—"lookout W—for if you drink too much Oscar Wilde, you'll find some fine morning a glorious sunflower growing out of the top of that handsome cranium of yours."

H. G. McCallahan vs. N. & O. R. R. Co.—Upon the suggestion of the death of plaintiff, it is ordered that Mrs. Agnes S. McCallahan be substituted as plaintiff in place of said deceased.
Russell vs. Wintry—The setting of the case is vacated.
Lake vs. Crutcher—Same order.
Holcombe vs. Gullheri—Same order.

Blundering.
There seems to be considerable blundering in relation to the announcements of public speakers. It was arranged for Mr. Varian to speak in Wadsworth on Friday night, and in Reno on Saturday evening. The Virginia Enterprise unaccountably reversed the programme, which accounts for the error of the Journal yesterday morning. The Gazette last evening undertook to set the matter right, publishing the State notice correctly, but unfortunately through some oversight localizes the meeting for Wadsworth as on Saturday. We are authorized to distinctly inform Wadsworth people that Messrs. Boardman and Varian will speak there Friday night. Alexander and Varian will address the Reno people on Saturday night.
